CANNING

Fight War Prices By Canning—

Each Housekeeper Has Her Own Method—Here Are Three Worth Trying.

BY CAROLINE COE.

Different housekeepers have different ways of canning fruits.

Some cook the fruit in a jar in the oven, some cook the fruit in a jar in boiling water, and others stew the fruit before packing it in the jars.

If stewing in a kettle is the process followed the fruit is carefully prepared and then put in a stewpan over a moderate fire.

When ready to put the prepared fruit in the jars, slip a broad skimmer or ladle under one jar at a time, removing it, and letting the water run free. Set the jar in the shallow milk pans and fill to overflowing with the boiling fruit. Slip a silver-plated knife or the handle of a spoon around the inside of the jar, that the fruit and the juice may be packed solidly.

Wipe the rim of the jar, dip the rubber ring in hot water. Put it smoothly on the jar, and fasten.

Place the jar on a board and out of the draught. The work of filling and sealing must be done rapidly.

Inasmuch as the glass jar contracts as it cools, it is necessary to tighten it again later.

Boiling Process.
Prepare the fruit and syrup as for cooking in the oven. Fill the sterilized jars and put the covers on loosely. Have a wooden rack in the bottom of a wash boiler. Put in enough warm water to come to about four inches above the rack. Place the jars in the boiler, but do not let them touch one another. Pack clean, white cotton rags, or, perhaps, better, cotton rope between and around the jars to prevent them from touching one another when the water begins to boil.

Cover the boiler and let fruit cook 10 minutes from the time the water begins to boil. Draw the boiler back; take off the cover, and on the steam passes off, take out one jar at a time and place in a pan of boiling water beside the boiler; fill up with boiling syrup and seal.

Put the jars on a board. Do not let cold air blow on them.

Oven Process.
Cover the bottom of an oven with a sheet of asbestos. It is cheap and can usually be purchased at a plumber's shop. If this is not available, put shallow pans which are filled with about two inches of boiling water.

Make the syrup; prepare the fruit the same as for cooking in the kettle. Fill the hot jars with it and pour in enough syrup to fill the jar solidly. Run the blade of a silver-bladed knife around the inside of the jar. Place the jars in the oven, either on the asbestos or in the pan of water.

The oven should be moderately hot.

Cook the fruit 10 minutes; remove from the oven and fill the jar with boiling syrup. Wipe and seal.
